Foreword

The preparation of the Canadian Directory of Parliament was undertaken in 1964 as a special project by the staff of the Publications Section of the Public Archives of Canada, under the direction of J. Keith Johnson, Editor-Historian. The completion of the 3165 biographical entries which this book contains has involved more than four years of extensive and painstaking research on their part. It is our hope that this book will become a standard biographical reference work, as well as a basis upon which more elaborate investigations of the nature of our political representation may be based, and that it will prove useful to all who are interested in the history or composition of the Parliament of Canada.

Inventory

The purpose of the inventory is to provide a complete and accurate record of the contents of the collection. It is a systematic and thorough listing of all the items in the collection, including their location, condition, and any other relevant information. The inventory is a valuable tool for the management and preservation of the collection, and it is essential for the development of a comprehensive collection policy.

Introduction

This volume has been prepared to bring together in a concise form a great deal of political-biographical information which has hitherto been accessible only in many scattered sources. The biographical sketches and the three appendices which this book contains constitute a record of the parliamentary careers of the more than 3100 men and women who have held office in the Canadian Senate and House of Commons during Canada's first one hundred years.

All of the biographical entries are brief, in no case exceeding 500 words in length, and their scope is consequently limited to a number of specific categories. The chief emphasis at all times is on the career of each individual in federal political affairs. For this aspect of the book a special effort has been made to secure complete information, including exact dates of parliamentary service and of offices held, to permit the reader to know at a glance the precise periods during which each Senator or Member occupied a place in the Parliament of Canada, in what capacities they sat, and who they represented. Each entry also provides, wherever possible, details of birth and death, parentage, marriage, education, occupation, residence, pre-parliamentary public life and post-parliamentary career. To avoid repetition the dates of all general elections are given by year only. Exact dates of federal general elections may be found in Appendix III.

The printed and manuscript sources from which this book has been compiled are, quite literally, too numerous to mention. In almost all cases the Canadian Parliamentary Guide, or its predecessor, the Canadian Parliamentary Companion, published, with some exceptions, on an annual basis since 1862, have been used as a point of departure, but additional or corroborative data has been sought in thousands of reference books, family histories, biographies, local histories, newspapers, Parliamentary Journals and Debates, official records, private papers, and many other less likely, but no less rewarding, sources. It has not been possible to list with the entries the sources from which they have each been compiled, but the information has been kept on file and will be accessible at the Public Archives.

The list of persons and institutions who have assisted with the project is also very long. Among those to whom the Public Archives is most deeply indebted for aid in solving large numbers of imponderable problems are Mrs. Christine Fox, Assistant Provincial Librarian of British Columbia, Mrs. Monica Robertson, Assistant Archivist at the New Brunswick Museum, Mr. Hartwell Bowsfield, formerly Provincial Archivist of Manitoba, Mr. Douglas Boylan, Provincial Archivist of Prince Edward Island, Dr. C. Bruce Fergusson, Provincial Archivist of Nova Scotia, Mr. Norman Hollingsworth of the Department of Justice, Ottawa, M. Jean-Jacques Lefebvre, Archivist of the Superior Court, Montreal, Dr. Paul Parrot of the Demography Branch, Quebec Department of Health, Mrs. Jean F. Sutherland of the Minutes and Journals Branch of the Senate of Canada, Mr. Allan R. Turner, Provincial Archivist of Saskatchewan and Mr. R. B. Wallace, Deputy Registrar General of Ontario. In addition, many present or former members of the Senate and of the House of Commons and their families, a great number of historians and historical societies, librarians, municipal officials, clergymen, custodians of burial grounds, and many others have patiently responded to appeals for help. A special word of appreciation must be extended to more than forty protonotarys of Quebec judicial districts, for their kind and indispensable co-operation. Lastly, the work of gathering material for this book has been to a very great extent the responsibility of a single member of the staff of the Public Archives, Carol Vaughan. To her, more than to anyone else, The Canadian Directory of Parliament owes its existence.

This is the first attempt at a compilation on such a scale of Canadian political biographies. It has not always been possible, despite assiduous research, to obtain complete details in each case, nor is it likely that errors have at all times been avoided. The Public Archives plans to maintain and to add to the biographical files from which this volume has been prepared, and to publish supplements, incorporating new and revised data, at intervals of perhaps ten years. Corrections and additional information will therefore be most welcome.

The biographical sketches and the appendices in this book are complete to July 1, 1967.
